DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claims contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

Claim 1 recites, "the picking gap is curved along the effective length." The specification in no way describes the structure of the invention that makes the picking gap curve. The specification does not state whether it is curvature of the fingers, the shape of the stripper plate or the position of the gathering rolls that cause the picking gap to curve. Applicant's specification merely states that the picking gap is defined by the approximately horizontal stripper plate that is arranged beneath the fingers and above the picking rolls. Figure 1, merely shows dotted lines as defining the picking gap.

Further, the specification states, "The design and function of the gathering and picking device 10 are disclose in greater detail in published US Patent application US2003/0079458 published 1 May 2003, the disclosure of which is hereby incorporated herein by reference." However, the specification describes in the background of the specification, that that the gathering and picking device in US2003/0079458 that the picking gap moves the crops laterally and then rewardly instead of in a curved path. A comparison of the structure of the instant invention and the invention discloses in US2003/0079458 shows no significant structural differences.

The specification does not describe any structural difference between the US2003/0079458 and the instant application, which would cause the picking gap in US2003/0079458 to move crop laterally while the picking gap in the instant application move crops in a curve. Both applications disclose a gathering element with bent fingers, both have a stripper plate and both has gathering rolls.

Given the above, the examiner cannot even attempt to assume what applicant was trying to claim for an action upon the merits.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 11/23/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant amended the claims and stated that the claims were now enabled. However, claims 1-6 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112 for not being enabled as described in detail above.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3671
